Your Visit to the High Museum of Art
A museum is a place of learning and excitement!

At the High Museum, we collect, preserve, and exhibit works of art to share with visitors like you.
The High Museum of Art owns and cares for over 15,000 works of art.

About 1,000 artworks are currently on view.
We also borrow art from museums and collections all over the world for our special exhibitions.
Here’s what to expect when you arrive:

A staff member will greet your group at the door.
You’ll receive an admission sticker.

Wear this at all times in a place where it is clearly visible.
We will collect lunches, bags, and coats to store while you enjoy the museum.
There are a few “Museum Manners” to follow:

There will be other visitors in the Museum. Please use quiet, inside voices.

Only take photographs if you have permission to do so. Make sure the flash is off!
Always stand at least an arm’s length away from the art, and remember not to touch.

Stay with your chaperone and be sure to walk, not run.
Audio-Guided Tours:

On an audio-guided tour, you will receive a headset and player.

This is an exciting way to hear about the art you’re seeing as you walk through the galleries.

Look for symbols next to the works of art, and type the number into your player to hear a recording.
Docent-Guided tours:

A docent is a volunteer who learns about the art in the Museum and leads guided tours of the galleries.

Your docent will use the art to teach you new things.

Docents love to hear what you think about art and are excited to hear your questions and ideas.
Workshops:

If your class is participating in a workshop during your visit, you’ll get to meet one of our Teaching Artists.

Teaching Artists love to work with students. They will lead you in a lesson to create a work of art inspired by what you have seen in the Museum.
Student Performances:

Depending on when your class visits the Museum, you may get to see a performance.

These fun and informative shows bring the art in the galleries to life to teach you even more during your visit.
While you’re here, be sure to ...

- Look Closely...
- Ask Questions...
- and Have Fun!
We look forward to seeing you soon!
