BARTENDERS ON BOARD FOR HIGHTBALL

Competitors announced for boozy bash benefiting the High Museum of Art

ATLANTA, Oct. 24, 2016 — The High Museum of Art has selected 16 of Atlanta’s top mixologists to go head-to-head in a craft cocktail competition at the inaugural Highball, a fundraiser featuring libations, light bites and music at the Museum on Feb. 18, 2017.

This year’s competitors and their establishments are:

- Donna Bogatin – TASTOPIA®
- Greta Buccellato – 5Church Atlanta
- Amy Burns – Hampton + Hudson
- Blake Carter – Sweet Auburn BBQ
- Bobby Dudley – The S.O.S. Tiki Bar
- Brent Hesse – 1KEPT
- Bryan Holmes – Davio’s Northern Italian Steakhouse Atlanta
- Hannah Leonard – Holeman and Finch Bottle Shop
- Carmaleita Lyght – Lyght House Cocktails
- Jose Pereiro – Drift Fish House & Oyster Bar
- Corey Phillips – Bellina Alimentari
- Trip Sandifer – The Painted Pin (Buckhead)
- Jessica Smith – Urban Tree Cidery
- Ryan Smith – Reboot Retrocade & Bar
- Jonathan Turner – Grain Spirits + Food
- Ben Yabrow – Himitsu
Each bartender will reveal his or her original cocktail recipe at the event. Guests may taste each cocktail and vote for the “People’s Choice” winner, who will be announced at evening’s end. Brad Kaplan, founder of ThirstySouth.com and food/drinks writer for Creative Loafing, will select a “Critic’s Choice” winner based on appearance, taste, complexity, balance and originality. In addition to bragging rights, the winning bartenders will each receive a cash prize. Throughout the night, guests will enjoy music by DJ Teknology and food by Sterling Spoon catering.

“We’re thrilled to bring the booziest minds in Atlanta mixology together with a lively crowd of cocktail connoisseurs at this new event to support the High,” said Allison Chance, the High’s director of development.

Doors will open at 6:30 p.m. for a benefactor preview hour, with general admission beginning at 7:30 p.m. All Atlantans 21 and older are encouraged to attend, and all proceeds will benefit the High’s operating budget. Single tickets are $100 for Museum members and $125 for not-yet members. Benefactor packages begin at $500. Tickets and packages may be purchased online at www.high.org/highball. Attire for the event is dressy casual.
